LETTERS FROM AMERICAN READERS

Letters from readers on current subjects are welcomed. Letters should be brief, to the point, and must be written on one side of the paper. Editor, Boston American, 5 Winter St.

Gets Out Job, but Not Adequate Pay

Reading of your efforts to help those out of work is getting me to look at my own position. I am a man of 40, with a family of four, and I have been out of work for two years and eight months. I have been out of work for two years and eight months. I have been out of work for two years and eight months.

Four weeks ago a man asked me to drive for him a day or two and help him. As yet he has not paid me and he never will because I am "poor." Another asked me to help him two days on a moving job. I never got a thank you—no "poor."

A woman asked me to clean her furnace, chop some wood, and some work around the house generally. When I got through, a half a day was killed. She did not pay me $5 because she was a preacher's wife and she had heard of me through the Private Welfare. I took $1.25, and she said she would pay me for my work from $2 to $10. I said I would not do it unless she paid me $1.25. She did not want to pay me or give her anything. I could not do a lot more, but that is enough.

I am 60 and active, and have been through a number of these experiences, but I did not have any children depending for sale and share, and it's pretty tough right now. I did not intend to say anything about myself, but it strikes me that the most of these people want the work. I have been looking for a job for the last two years and have been humiliated many times, as was Judge Carr.

Bootleggers Would Vote for Prohibition

Editor Boston American: While reading one of your editorials on prohibition, I wondered if the people ever think of the thousands of bootleggers and rum-runners who would vote for prohibition if it ever came to a vote for repeal or modification.

The reason is that they would want prohibition to go out while they are making thousands of dollars selling cheap, poisonous liquors at outrageous prices.

There are also numerous police officers and officials and politicians who would vote for prohibition because they are making large sums of money in the form of hush money.

It seems to me that as long as the government has prohibition on the books as a law they are making it possible for such a number of people to commit crime.

W. W. ALLEN.

Scuffs at Commissions

While Lay-Offs Increase Editor Boston American: The headlines in the papers proclaim that President Hoover forms a commission to look into the unemployment situation, and at the same time the Federal Reserve lays off its subsidiary to help in the postoffice.

And "business" postoffice clerks, some with large families, are working two hours a day, others less fortunate are unable to obtain as much time as that.

The Republican party is again asking our support. How can we honestly vote the Republican ticket when we know that the bankers have been giving the children instead of giving us the children's dimes? promised in 1928.

God help the people if the next two years of Republican proactivity are anything like the last two.

MRS. A. F. NICHOLSON.

Dangers of Bicycle Riding Discussed

Editor Boston American: In one out of every 20 cross-country puzzles you find the name of a man whose wife, when trying to run out of danger, turned into a pillar of salt.

And it brings my thoughts onto a more modern puzzle—that of the cross road.

A boy with his hoop, was waiting on the left hand curb ready to start. I came along close to the right hand side of the road where there was an embankment and a ditch below. I rode a bike and burned up the road at the rate of three miles an hour.

I rung the bell and kept on ringing it. The boy paid attention to his hoop. Then I shouted a loud hoo, hoo, hoo. But to no avail.

For, just as I was going to pass quick as lightning the boy shot across the road with his hoop.

To escape being hit I jumped down the embankment and into the ditch and dragged my bike along; but I fell under it.

It took me less than one twenty-fifth of a second the boy went off his hoop—landed on top of the ditch.

He stuck his foot through the wheels. And the whole ensemble became an indescribable mess. And the boy started to get up. The mother came on the scene. And the boy's mother and all the words in her vocabulary, giving me the reason why I was hit.

The boy, her boy, down to the bottom.

SOMETHING TO THINK ABOUT

Editor Boston American: Encourage boys in country districts to attend rural high schools and take instruction in agriculture. This is a very important matter. It is necessary that boys between the ages of 14 and 18 should have some instruction in agriculture. Modern farm implements are passing away. New ones have come into service that have taken most of the drudgery away from running a farm.

In 1929 the number of boys in rural high schools taking courses in agriculture increased. There are for that same year 3778 high schools giving this instruction. There is more than ever an interest in modern farming, but it will best be developed in the right way by means of the instruction in rural high schools. Anything to increase this interest among boys through your paper will be greatly appreciated. Farming must be popularized in New England.

HENRY T. THOMPSON.

ditch. Although, to all appearances I was ahead of him, prone, "the man boy on top" was not.

Again—the other day, with a bike, I was making all of one mile an hour, when a young lad came running straight in my direction, giving me no time to jump.

At the Age Women Dread

Three years ago I was in bed three months with a nervous breakdown. After that I had to lie down often. I have four children, the youngest 21, and I board two little school-boys to keep my home as a mother should but I am at the age so many women dread. Since taking six bottles of Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound, I feel 100% strong. I am not so nervous and my appetite is better. —Mrs. Della Hattell, 623 East 1st Street, Casper, Wyoming.

Fordham Win Over N. Y. U. Puts Team at Top in East

BOSTON EVENING AMERICAN SPORTS

BLUE BLOODS AND BLUE RIBBONS

NOTRE DAME TAKES PART IN SPURDIN MARCH TO THE NATIONAL GRIDIRON HONORS

Of the more prominent colleges throughout the country only ten are represented by undefeated, united teams at midseason. Notre Dame, Dartmouth, Fordham, Cornell, Western Maryland, Georgia, Alabama, Northwestern, Oregon and Washington State have kept their slates free from black marks.

Notre Dame, Western Maryland and Fordham have not been defeated since 1928, although the team was tied by Davidson and West Virginia last season. Fordham, however, is the only team that has not been scored upon this year, and, moreover, the Cavalier outfit has only yielded 13 points in its last 13 games. Along with being the only undefeated, united team in New England, Dartmouth is the country's highest scoring team, with a total of 232 points in its last 13 games.

Bill Grimes, who is only other Eastern university with a clean record, but because of the calibre of its opponents, the Huskies have yet to be tested. As Princeton has also been undefeated by Brown and Navy, Cornell's victory over the Tigers does not entitle Cornell to any special privilege in being.

Of the teams below the Mason-Diehl line, Georgia, Alabama and Kentucky are the only eleven that have won all of their games. Due to their victory over Yale, the Georgia Crackers are rated as the outstanding team of the South, but Alabama, which has turned back both Tennessee and Vanderbilt, is expected to be a serious contender for the championship of the Southern conference.

The University of Florida lost most of the prestige gained by its victory over the University of Chicago a week ago by losing to Furman, a team which was defeated 54 to 0 by the Army.

Northwestern Has Won Two Conference Games
Although playing without their star halfback, Hank Brandon, one of its games Northwestern has come through four tough games, and has many stars. Already Dick Harey's charges have won two conference games and with Bruker back in the line-up are favored over Minnesota next Saturday.

Kennan, recently expelled from the University of Oregon, is expected to be a serious contender for the championship of the Southern conference. The University of Oregon and Washington State are the only teams on the Pacific coast which have picked perfectly during the first half of the present season. Oregon's outstanding victory was accomplished when it turned back Jimmy Phelan's University of Washington, but Washington State is entitled to the big prize because of its wins over the University of Southern California.

At U. S. C. swamped Stanford and if the Pullman, Wash. team can continue to click in their remaining games they will be deserving of the highest recognition in the Coast States.

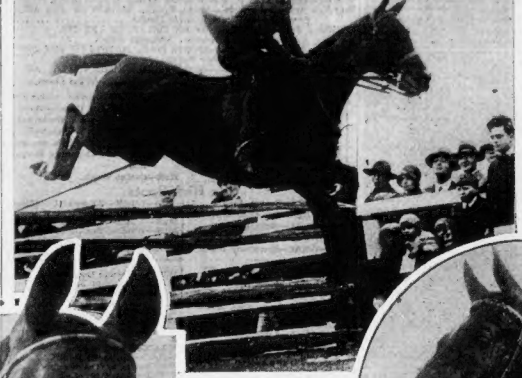

Among the teams that fell by the wayside last Saturday for the first time this season were Pittsburg, N. Y. U., Vanderbilt, Wisconsin, Florida, Louisville and Cornell. Although Yale has not been met back this year, using Yale dropped Major James' Raiders from the ultra-elite class. Boston College swung back into a winning orbit, after being stopped by Fordham and Villanova, by defeating Dayton. While Brown Brown pulled itself together and turned in a fine 10-0 victory over Holy Cross. Tufts annexed its second victory of the season with a win over Conn. College. But at Princeton, its first defeat on Nickerson Field, being on a short end of a 2-0 game with Springfield.

Fordham Wins City Title in New York
Fordham again won the championship of Gotham when Maj. Cunningham's boys slipped a 7-0 win over Chick Meehan's Violets, from N. Y. U.

Testing is getting to be a habit with Princeton, for the first time in 10 years, it is the third consecutive setback for Bill Rogers' Tigers. Penn State, swamped by Wisconsin a week ago, did a job on Austin Tate's Legion of God, and Colgate, which fell before the Croswell's Mobster's last week, thumped the undefeated Penn State eleven into a 4-0-0 submission.

Only two Conference games were played on Saturday, Michigan winning over Illinois, which was the second year in a row that the Zippke eleven, and Purdue scoring a 20-0 victory over Wisconsin by a narrow margin of 7 to 6. Northwestern, Indiana and Chicago played intercollegiate matches, the Husky outfit winning by a wide margin over Center, but the Huskies fell before Southern Methodist and Arizona State. More were held to a convenient tie by the University of Minnesota.

Notre Dame faced with the University of Pittsburgh scoring 28 points in the first half, which was MISS ANN KENYON of North Attleboro, one of New England's foremost girl riders, clearing a jump on Randy, her favorite jumper. She will be striving for the Blue Ribbons in this week's Horse Show in the Boston Garden.

U. S. Army Team Favorite to Win in Garden Horse Show

Everything is in readiness for the Boston Horse Show, which opens at Boston Garden tomorrow afternoon, at 2:15 o'clock, for a five-day stay. The foremost horses and exhibitors of the nation are arriving hourly for the big exhibition, and the Garden itself has been transformed into a veritable palace for King Horse.

Four of the five army horse show teams, United States, Canada, Irish, Free State, Sweden and Germany, are already stabled here for the show, and the only one missing, Sweden, is expected to arrive today.

While everyone is interested in the personnel and record of the four teams which will meet America's army representative, the greater amount of partnership will surround the showing of the United States officers.

The officers who will carry the honors of the Stars and Stripes in nearly all the jumping classes during the show, and in the big international championship class on the last day, Saturday, are Maj. Harry D. Chamberlin, Capt. John T. C. Capt. W. B. Bradford, Lieut. John

He was captain of the team which successfully invaded Europe in 1923, competing in Poland, Germany and Ireland.

Capt. Cole rode in New York on the team of 1926. Last year he graduated from the advanced course at the United States Cavalry school. He is being trained for the Olympic games of 1932.

Capt. W. B. Bradford is a graduate of the American and French Cavalry school. He was a member of the Olympic team in 1928 and a member of the 1929 team which visited Germany, Poland and Ireland. He has been a member of the American team since 1926, and Lieut. John C. Bradford has been an American team last fall and was seen in action here during the Boston show then. He also is a graduate of the Cavalry.

Lieut. Earl F. Thom was a member of the team which went to Europe in 1923, and also was on the team which showed here last year. He also is a recent graduate of the United States Cavalry school. Lieut. Rogers is the most recent addition to the U. S. representatives, having just joined the team after graduating from the Cavalry school.

As these men represent the best riders of the American Army, and their experience is unsurpassed by any of their prospective opponents, there is but little doubt that they will prove strong favorites to capture the military honors which will feature the Boston show.

Swedish Army Team Arrives
New York, Oct. 26.—The Swedish Army Horse Show team will arrive here tonight on the R. S. Gripsholm at the Swedish-American line.

Four officers and eight horses comprise the party which will represent the army at the Boston Horse Show, which opens at Boston Garden tomorrow night.

The officers and their horses will arrive here at the midnight train for Boston. Special arrangements have been made by the railroad and the Swedish team in order to get the Swedish team to Boston in time for the show.

A special horse car will be added to the midnight train in order to carry the horses to the Garden. The officers, who will be attended by their orderlies, are Capt. Carl Liljander, Lieut. Von Rosen and Lieut. von Rosen.

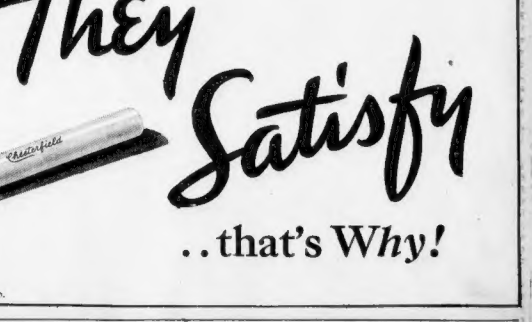

They will arrive in Boston early tomorrow morning. The horses will be taken to the Boston Garden, while the officers will make their headquarters at the Copple-Place.

New York, Oct. 27.—Leonard MacMahon, Colgate football, is the leading scorer in Eastern football ranks.

"GANGSTER GIRL"

Big Gang Leader Falls in Love With Annie

"ANNIE," SAID SILK, "you make me feel like no other skit ever did." "That's your hard luck," she answered. "Let me fill up your glass."

What Has Happened So Far.
Felix, Annie, red-headed beauty of the Chicago underworld, after killing two gang leaders to avenge the slaying of her sweetheart, comes to New York and appeals for protection to Silk Freeman, a big who racketeer. He provides an expensive hotel suite for her and tells her he wants her to help him muscle in on the beauty parlor racket and make millions. In the meantime Annie declares that all she owes the world is a good business.

Now Go On with the Story.

CHAPTER 3
ON PARK AVE. Silk Freeman owned an apartment building. And on one of the upper floors, the whole of which he held out, was his pet hide-away. There he smoked his opium pipe every afternoon. There was his sanctum sanctorum. Even his most intimate friends were not allowed to enter his sanctum. Here he had priceless privacy. The doorman were gunned. The elevator men were gunned. Inside the apartment an ex-cop served night and day as his valet, his chef, his Friday. The apartment had no windows. No neighbors even smelled the aroma of the fresh poppy in its opium odor or the stench of stale food. Ventilation was by connoisseurs boiling outward to the free air.

Bundles of Bills

When Silk Freeman came home, in a roll-top desk that didn't even have a lock on it were bundles of bills—banknotes—currency, grand, half-grand, notes—thousands and thousands of dollars worth. He would spend hours writing out deposit slips. The money came in all day long. The men who paid in it attached little memoranda to check. They never even saw the face of the man who gave the plunder to. But never a dollar went astray in transit.

Freeman's two bodyguards slept there, too. They came with him and went with him. They were never far away when as the Broadway lights began to twinkle he would look before Brown a drug store, in the rent of which he had a suppressed telephone. They never took their eyes off him. He never picked a gun. No punk copper or over-ambitious assistant district attorney would ever give him a bum fall like they slipped Al Capone in Philly. Even when Silk Freeman owned judges and bulls, he didn't trust them.

Big Time Rackets

He ran more big-time rackets in his head than all the rest of the metropolis put together. He was sure of himself. He could "xy the hip" every afternoon and float on the wings of the poppy, and he could be keener than bankers who wouldn't have lit a cigarette. He made men do what he wanted and he made women do as he pleased.

And yet on this day, Silk Freeman didn't have himself under control. In their graves in Chicago, Kinky King and Gelly Goo could have told him that and fourteen other tough guys, not the least of them the Police Kid—the only kid of the Police Kid—Annie's red-headed and

Routs Robbers

Wrong Name Given by Girl in Lynn Ceremony, Parents Claim

Ernest L. Cushing, 31, the luckless bridegroom in Lynn's "bond street romance," began a search in Boston today for his 16-year-old bride after learning she had been brought here by her brother.

Cushing, who lives at 3 Bond st. also faces an arduous fight in probate court, with the parents of the girl and the police both planning such action.

The girl is the 16-year-old Miss Rose R. Weiner of 12 Bond st., who when married, declared he would retain the bride he took at a ceremony performed by the Rev. John F. Scott, pastor of St. Stephen's Episcopal Church.

The bride and groom eloped, and then each went back to their respective homes. The marriage was declared null and void by the court while the Rose's parents declared the ring on her finger and the whole story came out.

GAVE WRONG NAME

The bridegroom, calling for Rose yesterday, found that their secret was out, and that the Weiners were determined to break the matrimonial bonds. The police were called upon, and Cushing produced the marriage certificate. Then the bridegroom, of the name "Budger" for the bride, and her age as 18 instead of 16, was discovered.

City Clerk Joseph W. Atwell will be called upon to ask the Probate Court today to annul the marriage. The Weiners employed an attorney to ask the judge to find some way to annul the marriage. If that can be done to settle the matter.

A more direct plan might be to pay off the population—and let everybody exchange $100 bills.

Human nature, however, would doubtless prompt a lot of the idle rich to hurriedly change their clothes and join the parade.

So declares Alexander Hamilton McGimpus (above) in an exclusive monographed interview tossed from his office window late yesterday.

"I was down and out most every night," says McGimpus. "I couldn't bear to stay home. The radio drove me crazy! Then I paused, at a busy intersection, or reflection. Suddenly every thing turned black before my eyes. My brain was a ball of fire. I had an idea. Since then I have been doing very well selling a line of handy gear for the home.
